This guide describes 144km through Lancashire and the Yorkshire Dales on the new second section of the Pennine Bridleway, a national trail that will link Derbyshire to Northumberland when complete.

Stretching from Summit, Lancashire to the outskirts of Kirkby Stephen in Cumbria, these stages offer exceptional riding in one of Britain's most beautiful wild areas. 11 mountain biking loops branch off from the main route for extra time in the saddle.

Difficulty grades range from easy routes for families through to tough challenges for veteran riders. Classic trails have been rejuvenated thanks to new development and there are now brand new sections of untouched bridleway. Even seasoned riders will be surprised by the possibilities.
