A joint production by the FRCC and Cicerone, this book is the definitive guide to winter climbing in the English Lake District. With clear maps to help find the crags and detailed colour photo-topos to help locate all the intricate routes.

The book describes every known winter climb from every part of the Lake District, ranging from classic high mountain gullies and buttresses on crags such as Scafell, Pillar and Great Gable, to frozen watercourses and icefalls including Great Gully on the Wasdale Screes, Launchy Gill, Low Water Beck and Cautley Spout, as well as the ever-popular venues like Great End and the Eastern Coves of the Helvellyn Escarpment. Several routes in outlying Cumbria are also included.

With sections on winter equipment, winter climbing and conservation, climbing walls and accommodation, and a first ascent list that includes masses of interesting historical research.

- Covers a vast array of routes throughout the Lake District

About the author

The Fell and Rock Climbing club was founded in 1906-07, and membership has since grown to well over 1000 members worldwide who found their mountaineering origins in the Lakes. Its aims are to encourage rock climbing and fell walking in the English Lake District and to act as a bond of union for its members. The club publishes a number of guides to climbing in the area, as well as a bi-annual supplement to new routes.
