For the purpose of this guidebook the term -South Pennines- refers to the hill country on the Lancashire/Yorkshire border between the Yorkshire Dales and Peak National Parks.

The 30 circular walks range from four to eight and a half miles. They are for both experienced and novice walkers, and vary from simple valley strolls (ideal as family half-day rambles) to more challenging moorland expeditions.

Hand-written and illustrated in Jack Keighley's highly distinctive style, each description contains parking information; a detailed map and concise route directions all on the same page; a general description of the terrain, and notes on features of interest.
