In 1612 ten 'Pendle Witches' went to the scaffold. These miserable wretches and their supposed victims lived in the villages and farmsteads surrounding Pendle Hill. This year marks the 400th anniversary of the event, but no matter how much time passes the magical aura of witchcraft still pervades an area that remains as wild and beautiful now as it was in King James's day.

All 30 walks in this guide are circular and fairly uniform in length, with an average of about 6 miles, making them ideal for families to discover the magic of the area on half-day rambles. Access to Pendle Hill is easy along the A56 and A59, while the M65 extends from the national motorway network into the heart of 'Lancashire Witch Country'.
